Police Board's Role in the Disciplinary Process

Discharge Cases: The Police Board decides disciplinary cases when the Superintendent of Police files charges to discharge a sworn officer from the Police Department.*

Disagreement Cases: Individual members of the Police Board rule on disagreements between the Chief Administrator of the Civilian Office of Police Accountability and the Superintendent of Police over the recommended discipline of an officer.

* Under the union contracts currently in effect, a police officer may, in certain instances, request a Police Board review of a suspension. Such requests are rare—there has been only one since 2015.

Amount of Time to Bring Charges and Decide Cases

Once a complaint of alleged police misconduct is received, it is investigated by COPA, BIA, or OIG and then reviewed the Superintendent. If the recommended discipline is to discharge the officer from the CPD, the Superintendent files charges with the Board. The Board will then hold an evidentiary hearing and decide the case.

The table below presents data on the average amount of time it takes to bring charges and to decide cases. The information below is for the 8 cases that the Board decided from January 1 through June 30, 2023, following a full hearing on the charges (all of these cases were investigated by COPA, and some of the cases involved more than one accused officer).

Appeals of Police Board Decisions

Under Illinois law, the parties to a Police Board disciplinary case (the Superintendent and the accused officer) have the right to appeal the Board's decision by filing a petition for administrative review in the Circuit Court of Cook County. A party dissatisfied with the Circuit Court's review of a Police Board case may appeal to the Appellate Court of Illinois.

*Police Board decision affirmed or appeal dismissed.

Cases (1) currently before a court, or (2) for which the time limit for appealing a circuit court decision has not yet expired.

Note: A particular case may be reviewed by more than one court (circuit court, appellate court), and court rulings may cause the Board to issue more than one decision (e.g., a decision on remand); the data in this table pertain to final court action regarding the Board's original decision.

Disagreement Cases Referred to the Police Board

When the Chief Administrator of the Civilian Office of Police Accountability and the Superintendent of Police do not agree regarding the discipline of a CPD officer, the Chief Administrator shall refer the matter to one member of the Police Board. The reviewing member shall then rule on the disagreement between the Chief Administrator and the Superintendent, as follows:

- If, in the opinion of the reviewing member, the Superintendent's response did not meet the burden of overcoming the Chief Administrator's recommendation for discipline, the Chief Administrator's recommendation shall be deemed to be accepted by the Superintendent.
- If, in the opinion of the Reviewing Member, the Superintendent met the burden to overcome the Chief Administrator's recommendation for discipline, the Superintendent's response shall be implemented.
