Dear Vendors:

Congratulations on your recent certification and thank you for your interest in Doing Business with the City of Chicago.

Everyone involved in the City's procurement process, from the operating departments to the Department of Procurement Services, is committed to providing information, resources and tools to assist you in your efforts to compete for City of Chicago contracting opportunities.

Each year, we continue to work to become a better customer. Whether that effort involves revamping our specifications to make our requirements easier to understand, reaching out to primes and subcontractors to assist them in forging working relationships, streamlining the procurement process to get contracts in place more quickly, or improving our contract administration so that you get paid promptly and completely, we are working hard to earn your participation and trust. Mayor Rahm Emanuel has initiated several new initiatives to increase contract participation by small businesses. Go to our website to learn more about the Small Business Initiative, the Diversity Credit Program, and Micro-lending.

We invite you to sign up for our DPS Alerts to receive the most current Bid Announcements. Go to www.cityofchicago.org/procurement and submit your email address for the weekly updates. In this booklet you will find our workshop schedule for 2012. Workshops include: Meet the Department of Procurement Services, Contracting 101, Introduction to City Bonding Requirements, and How to Become Certified, just to name a few. Register for workshops at 312-744-6394.

We hope that you will use this guide, and choose to become involved in the business of the City of Chicago.

Thank you in advance for your time and good work, and for helping make our city a better place to live and raise families.
Doing business with government, whether at the federal, state or local level, requires careful attention to detail. One reason for this is the sheer size of the agencies that are responsible for the entire country, an entire state or a city as large as Chicago. Another reason is that, as you know, everyone in America has the right to due process of the law. The two keys to due process are notice and opportunity. Notice means that the applicable rules must be made known to all; it also means that everyone must be made aware of the opportunities that exist to do business with government. Opportunity means just what it says: you must have the chance to do business with government, and do so on essentially equal footing with anyone else that is also trying to get government business.

Enforcing your due process rights requires a lot of rules. You will need to familiarize yourself with the rules, and be careful about complying with the specific requirements of each government unit. Navigating your way through all of these rules can sometimes be challenging, but there are a lot of resources to help you. In order to do business with the City of Chicago, the Department of Procurement Services (“DPS”) has published “The City of Chicago Guide to Procurement Fundamentals” and the 2012 Buying Plan.

In addition to its publications, DPS holds a variety of classes and training sessions. Notice of these events is provided on the DPS website: http://www.cityofchicago.org/city/en/depts/dps.html. You can also sign up to receive notice of these events by e-mail by going to the DPS website and registering to receive DPS Alerts.
Doing Business with the Government

State of Illinois

For the State of Illinois, you can go to the home page of the Sell2 Illinois Program offered by the Department of Central Management Services at http://www.sell2.illinois.gov to: 1) register and pre-qualify your company to do business with the State; 2) find eligibility requirements and submit a request to be certified by the State’s Business Enterprise Program; and 3) register your company on the Illinois Procurement Bulletin and receive e-mail notices of bid opportunities with the State. Other State agencies, such as the Department of Transportation, will also post procurement opportunities on their own website.

Federal Government

The Federal Government has a number of central resources. To learn more about the rules and opportunities for businesses offered in federal procurement, you can go to: https://www.acquisition.gov/. This website is run by the General Services Administration to provide a central source of information for all federal procurement. The links on the left side of the page include many acquisition systems operated by the United States and the bid opportunities presented by those systems. The links on the right side will direct you to the general rules as well as agency-specific rules and regulations of the federal agencies.

You are always welcome to visit DPS!

We will be happy to speak with you to help you learn how to make the most out of doing business with government. You can call 312-744-4900 or e-mail us at dps.feedback@cityofchicago.org to make an appointment. Or, attend one of our many workshops geared towards helping vendors do business with the City.
The Target Market Program was designed and implemented in 1991 to promote prime contracting opportunities exclusively for Minority and Women-owned Business Enterprises (MBEs/WBEs). Participation in the Target Market Program is limited to City-certified MBEs and WBEs and joint ventures consisting exclusively of MBEs/WBEs, or both. The selection of contracts for inclusion in the Target Market Program is a combined effort between the user departments and the Department of Procurement Services. Contracts included in the Target Market Program can be either MBE Target Market, WBE Target Market or designated as open to all certified MBEs and WBEs. For a contract to be included in the Target Market Program there must be at least three certified MBEs or WBEs in a given commodity/specialty area (based on the scope of work defined in the specification).

The prime contractor on a Target Market contract may subcontract up to 50% of the dollar value of the contract to firms that are either certified MBEs, WBEs or non-certified firms.
On an annual basis, the Chief Procurement Officer has established a goal of awarding not less than 25% Non-Construction to Minority Business Enterprises (MBE) and 5% to Women Business Enterprises (WBE). 24% Construction to Minority Business Enterprises (MBE) and 4% to Women Business Enterprises (WBE). To achieve this goal, each specification prepared for solicitation is reviewed to determine if MBE and WBE requirements can be fulfilled.

A bidder/proposer can make MBE and WBE commitments on City of Chicago contracts in one of the following ways:

1. The prime vendor is a certified MBE or WBE.
2. Joint Venturing with one or more certified MBEs or WBEs.
3. Subcontracting a portion of the work to one or more MBEs or WBEs. (Credit is not granted for work performed by brokers or non-MBE/WBE subcontractors of any tier).
4. Purchasing materials that are used in the performance of the contract from one or more MBEs or WBEs; or
5. The goals may be met through indirect participation by contracting with MBEs or WBEs for the provision of goods and services not directly related to the performance of this contract.

At time of submitting a BID/RFP or RFQ, the bidder/proposer must fully complete and execute a Schedule D (D-1, D-2 or D-3). The schedule will list out every MBE and WBE firm that the bidder/proposer has decided to partner with and is requesting the City to approve the utilization of those firms. The total percentage of commitment to the MBE and WBE requirement is listed on the Schedule D (D-1, D-2 or D-3).

To determine if a contractor has met its MBE and WBE commitment, MBE/WBE utilization is based on the total dollars spent by the City, NOT on the total estimated dollars awarded.

All prime vendors are required to report their MBE/WBE utilization to the City online.

Please read Instructions for Bidders, Requests for Proposals and Requests for Qualifications carefully
We understand that government solicitations for bids, proposals and qualifications contain a lot of information and may have mandatory forms to complete. However, non-responsive bids must be rejected. Rejected bids increase the cost of work to the City and may result in your firm not getting the contract. In the coming months, with input from the vendor community, we look forward to releasing new solicitation documents that will be straightforward and user-friendly. We will notify all vendors and offer a series of training classes when the documents are finalized.

Please make sure you have the facts before submitting a bid!
The telephone number and e-mail address of the individual from the Department of Procurement Services (“DPS”) who is responsible for the solicitation that you are interested in is stated on the cover page of that solicitation. If you are unable to get an answer to your questions, the telephone number and e-mail address for all of the management personnel in DPS is listed on our website: www.cityofchicago.org/procurement. Call or write us, we are here to assist you. However, please keep in mind that in regards to bid solicitations, we must communicate answers to anything but the most general questions to all firms in the vendor pool. This is usually done via an addendum.

Errors and omissions in your bids, proposals and qualifications cost both you and the City time and money
While you may think that you have seen the same document many times before, details matter. A missing signature, a math error or the failure to complete a portion of a disclosure document may result in your bid or proposal being rejected. You lose out on an opportunity, and the City may have to pay more for the same goods or services from the next low bidder.

Certification/Compliance
The City remains committed to the development and utilization of small, minority, women and disadvantaged owned businesses. In each bid solicitation, you receive a list of DPS Assist Agencies. Please utilize them whenever you have contracting needs. They have members holding certification in a variety of disciplines.
Helpful Tips

Communication is the key

One of the areas the City and vendors can work together is on the bid documents and submittals. We offer training and are available to answer your questions. We will be reaching out to our vendors as we undertake a number of efforts to improve our documents and processes. We encourage feedback from vendors to assist us in this process. Please email us your thoughts and comments at dps.feedback@cityofchicago.org. Our goal is to have a dialogue that will help DPS and the City conduct its business in a way that yields wins for everyone involved.
